INTRODUCTION

I'm a junior developer ready to enter the major leagues. My professional ambition is to stay versatile and be able to complete different tasks within a software team. As such I have a strong grasp on designing/developing web applications from scratch. Through school experience I also have a good fundamental knowledge in data structures, algorithms, and object-oriented programming. I'm looking for a great, enthusiastic software team to work for that will provide me with challenging, interesting work that I can learn from and contribute to.
